The Horse at The Heart of The St. Regis Kuala Lumpur

At The St. Regis Kuala Lumpur, the horse is not an ornament—it is a code. An enduring emblem of strength, elegance, and disciplined power, it reflects a lineage shaped by the House of Astor.

For John Jacob Astor IV, polo was more than sport; it was a social language. In the Gilded Age, the polo field became a stage for composure and control, where mastery of movement defined status and style.

That legacy finds its clearest expression in art.

Energy in Motion

Grace Thunders is a specially commissioned diptych of two hand-etched leather murals by British artist Mark Evans, flanking the lobby. The work depicts a dramatic polo game with five horses and riders charging forward, mallets raised, seen from the ball's point of view—placing the viewer at the center of the action.

Monument in Bronze

This monumental Horse sculpture by Fernando Botero—the largest he ever created—weighs 2.5 tonnes and measures 3.6m x 3.5m x 1.8m. Cast in bronze in Pietrasanta, Italy, it arrived in Malaysia in 2010 as the country's first Botero sculpture, installed using specialist art movers, cranes, a 7.5-tonne forklift, and 40-foot trailers.

Equestrian Codes

This dialogue between discipline and motion continues throughout the hotel. Stirrup-inspired chairs, leather-belted trunks, and horsehair accents translate equestrian heritage into design—expressed with precision, craftsmanship, and timeless restraint.

Gong Xi Fa Cai Year of the Horse

This Chinese New Year, The St. Regis Kuala Lumpur presents Masterstrokes of the Stallion 马寿泰康 — a bold expression of the Year of the Horse shaped by heritage and art.

Rooted in the House of Astor's polo legacy and reflected in our private art collection, the campaign draws a striking parallel between horse and calligraphy, where motion is guided by discipline and strength is revealed through restraint. A confident, timeless expression of the St. Regis spirit.
